

Nota Bene: N

N

- nabob: originally, a person who returned to Europe from India with great riches; a wealthy person who is accustomed to luxury
- nadir: the point on the imaginary celestial sphere directly beneath a given position or observer (opposite of zenith); lowest point or point of greatest adversity or despair
- name: grammatical category for a word that refers to or identifies an object
- nanosecond: one billionth of a second; used to indicate the shortest conceivable period of time
- napalm: a type of burning plastic used as a weapon in war
- narcissistic: possessed by self-love
- narcolepsy: the disorder of suddenly and unpredictably falling asleep
- narcoma: a hazy state between sleep and wakefulness reminiscent of or signaling use of narcotics
- nascence: beginning to exist or develop
- naturō abhorret a vacuō: nature abhors a vacuum
- ne plus ultra: do not go beyond this point; the highest possible embodiment (of something)
- nebula: a cloud of interstellar gas or dust; means “fuzzy”
- nebulous: vague, cloudy or hazy
- nebulochastic: hazy and confused
- necessary and sufficient conditions: in causal reasoning, the meaning of “cause” where inferences are made both from cause to effect and from effect to cause; in deductive reasoning, two statements that are materially equivalent are necessary and sufficient conditions for one another, since they imply one another; i.e., p “if and only if” q
- necessity: it must be the case that ...
- necrology: a list of people who have recently died
- necromancy: witchcraft; the supposed practice of gaining insight by means of communication with the dead
- negation: denial; it is not the case that ...; symbolized by the tilde (~); ~p means “it is not the case that p”
- nefarious: evil
- nemesis: an opponent motivated by revenge
- neolithic: latter part of the so-called “Stone Age”; something so unsophisticated as to belong to a much earlier era
- neophyte: a recent convert
- nepotism: favoritism toward relatives in professional matters
- nether: lower; removed
- neurology: the study of the nervous system and its diseases
- nexus: a linkage or connection
- niggardly: stingy
- nirvana: a point or state of spiritual perfection where one’s physical existence is beyond concern (a tenet of Buddhism)
- noblesse oblige: nobility obligates; the moral obligation of those few who are leaders to lead
- nocturnal: occurring during the night
- noisome: putrid, fetid, noxious
- nolens volens: whether willing or not (willy-nilly)
- nom de guerre: wartime name; a name taken or bestowed during wartime
- nomenclature: a system of names for purposes of organization
- nomina: names
- nominalism: the view that only particulars are real; universals are only a name given to an observable similarity

Nota Bene: N

non compos mentis: of unsound mind non sequitur: a statement that does not follow logically from what preceded it nonchalance: the quality of being unconcerned with worldly cares nonentity: something that does not exist nonfeasance: failure to perform (a given duty) nonpareil: a person without parallel or equal nota bene: take careful note (abbreviated N.B.)

notorious: famous, especially for evil actions or qualities noumena: things apprehended by thought, independent of the senses nouveau riche: someone recently wealthy; a description of someone who has recently gained an enormous amount of wealth, a wealth that brings with it a tactless or overbearing attitude

nox: night (nocturnal) noxious: harmful; injurious nubile: sexually mature (i.e., prepared for marriage); used almost exclusively in reference to young women nugatory: worthless or in vain nullibiety: a state of being nowhere numerology: the supposed practice of divining the future through analyzing the occult significance of numbers numismatic: pertaining to coins, medals, paper money nunc aut nunquam: now or never