

Nota Bene: J

J

jejune: dull or lackluster jettison: to cast off or overboard jeopardize: to put in danger jingoistic: aggressively and overbearingly patriotic jocular: joking; facetious jocund: given to merriment jostle: to bump or disrupt by means of incidental contact judgment: a movement in thought which asserts a predicate (quality or relation) of a subject judicature: the authority of jurisdiction of a court of law junoesque: from Juno, queen of the Roman gods jurisprudence: the science of law justification: to declare as righteous in a forensic or legal sense juxtapose: to place close together or side by side in order to compare and contrast